

MIKE GOODWIN SAYS, "SUPERCROSS CHANGED HANDS ILLEGALLY."

Citing a 2003 court ruling that was hidden by attorneys and only came to light recently, Michael Goodwin, creator of the sport of Supercross, said, "The Mickey Thompson Entertainment Group bankruptcy in 1995 was illegal since it did not list the real assets of the company, those having to do with Supercross. It listed only the assets of MTEG's defunct stadium off-road racing business." Goodwin made the statement from the R.J. Donovan Correctional Facility where he's serving two life terms without parole.

"It is clear that the specious murder charges against me were orchestrated to protect those involved in that bankruptcy fraud," Goodwin said. The court valued Supercross at $10 million in that 2003 ruling and said that Goodwin's attempt to re-open the bankruptcy, in order to properly adjudicate it, was valid and should have gone forward over the objections of the trustee.
